Togo attack 'no threat to World Cup'

South African President Jacob Zuma and Fifa president Sepp Blatter each sent their condolences to Togo following Friday's terrorist attack on the Togolese football team in Angola, while insisting that the incident had no bearing on South Africa's hosting of the 2010 Fifa World Cup.

Gautrain 'will be ready for World Cup'

Despite earlier doubts about its completion date, the Gautrain rapid rail link between Johannesburg's OR Tambo International Airport and Sandton Station will be ready before the 2010 Fifa World Cup, says construction consortium Bombela.

World Cup: expect busy skies

South Africa's skies will be busy from morning to night during the 2010 Fifa World Cup, with South African Airways planning a 24-hour operation to shuttle football fans to and fro across the country throughout the tournament.

SA's 'most important year since 1994'

Friday 1 January marked the beginning of the most important year in South Africa since 1994, President Jacob Zuma said in his New Year message, calling on all South Africans to work together make the 2010 Fifa World Cup "one of the most successful projects we have ever undertaken as a nation".
